Campbell Residents Connect with Our Community

Community service outreach is part of the legacy of Campbell Clinic. It's baked into the DNA of the place.

Every week this fall, Campbell residents will provide voluntary sports team coverage for Memphis Academy of Health Sciences Lions football team, a charter school in Memphis that promotes careers in the health services. MAHS has 100% minority enrollment, with 75% of students economically disadvantaged, and boasts a 93% graduation rate.

The kids attending MAHS are great kids. They come from tough circumstances but they are dedicated to creating a better future for themselves through education. - Jack Blair, Campbell Foundation Board Chairman

Foot & Ankle Team On the Move

In August, Campbell Clinic welcomed a new physician specializing in foot & ankle surgery. Dr. Clayton Bettin joined the Campbell staff after completing a Foot & Ankle Fellowship at the University of Utah. Dr. Bettin received his medical degree from The Ohio State University College of Medicine and Public Health, Columbus, OH, and completed his orthopaedic residency at University of Tennessee - Campbell Clinic in 2015.

Because of donor support, we also welcomed two foot & ankle fellows in August, Dr. Brandon Taylor from the University of South Alabama, and Dr. Jane Yeoh from the University of British Columbia Department of Orthopedics.

Campbell Alum Leaves a Lasting Impression

In 2012, Dr. John T. Hocker '62, passed away after a long and productive career in orthopaedics. It was Dr. Hocker's desire to give back to the institution that altered the course of his professional life - The Campbell Foundation - according to his family.

Through his estate plan, Dr. Hocker provided for the establishment of the John T. Hocker, M.D. Orthopaedic Internship Fund to support young physicians beginning their orthopaedic residency training. This fund has ensured that promising young doctors have obtained the very best educational training, unlimited by financial barriers.

Dr. Hocker's gift has truly made a lasting impression and we are grateful for this vital support of our education program. - Quin Throckmorton, Residency Program Director

You, too, can leave a lasting impression. For more information on estate planning, contact Karen Watson, kwatson@campbell-foundation.org or 901.759.3233

NEWS BITES

Blues Brothers
Charlie Hubbard and Frank Kelly

We've recently heard that Charlie Hubbard '81 and Frank Kelly '78 have retired from practice.

Congratulations!

So that reminded us of a story. Drs. Bob Tooms '64 and Lee Milford '53 and other local physicians were members of ROSES (Retired Old Surgeons Eating Society). And that left us wondering... will Hubbard and Kelly establish the ROSES Georgia Chapter?
