

Foundation to edit new publication

Campbell Clinic surgeon Dr. Andrew H. Crenshaw has recently become Editor-in-Chief of Current Orthopaedic Practice, a peer-reviewed, general orthopaedic publication designed to translate clinical research into best practices for diagnosing, treating and managing musculoskeletal disorders.

Published bimonthly, this journal covers the spine, shoulder, elbow, wrist, hand, hip, knee, foot and ankle, as well as pediatric orthopaedics, orthopaedic trauma and sports medicine. Four-color photographs and illustrations assist in conveying key information orthopaedic surgeons need to effectively practice in today's fast-paced healthcare environment.

The Campbell Foundation editorial staff of Kay Daugherty, Linda Jones and Shawn Maxey will work with Dr. Crenshaw in writing and editing the articles, along with graphics director, Barry Burns, who will provide the accompanying photos and illustrations.

Campbell Clinic surgeons contribute to many other medical journals and textbooks such as:

- Foot & Ankle International (Editor-in-Chief Emeritus, E. Greer Richardson, M.D.)
- AAOS Now (Editor-in-Chief, S. Terry Canale, M.D.)
- Fractures in Children, 5th, 6th, 7th editions (Co-Editor James H. Beaty, M.D.)
- Numerous articles by staff, fellows and residents in national orthopaedic journals, including Clinical Orthopaedic & Related Research, Journal of Knee Surgery, Journal of Pediatric Orthopaedics, and American Journal of Sports Medicine.

Daugherty has been with the Foundation for 30 years. She and Jones, an 18-year veteran, provide research, editorial and clerical support in the production of Foundation textbooks and journals. They work with Campbell Clinic staff physicians in the writing and editing of research articles for publication, prepare presentations for conferences and meetings, and serve as liaisons with the publishing companies. Burns has been with the Foundation for 17 years. He produces all photographs, illustrations and videos for Campbell Clinic publications and presentations.
